THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 29, 1861.

A TREASURE TROVE. A case which afforded a great deal of fun, and which involved a knotty point of law under its comical exterior, came up yesterday, in the Supreme Court. It seems that in Luzerne county lived a man named Elisha Harris. He owned a large farm, and was supposed to have saved considerable money. He was an eccentric and close fisted individual, and he lived entirely secluded and alone. In July 1858, he died. His administrators could find no property beyond the ordinary household furniture, &c. According to custom, they had a vendue-or, as the country people call it--"a vandoo," (which, by the way, is one of the three great sources of excitement and interest in the countrycourt week and funerals being the other two.) The vendue was well attended, it being inferred that the money which it was supposed that the deceased died possessed of, had been concealed somewhere-and old chests and bureaus probably never before sold so well at an up-country sale. Well, one David M. Huthmacher, an honest Dutchman, went to the sale, and a nondescript article of furniture was struck off to him for tifteen cents. It was a square block of pine wood, about three feet long and ten or twelve inches square, supported by four legs, each about a foot and a half in length. On the top was a horizontal wheel, with an iron spindle attached to it. It was an outlandish affair, and it might, for all we know, have come out of the ark and been applied to antedituvian uses. David paid his fifteen cents, and hauled his purchase home and threw it on the woodpile. In course of time it came to be split open for fire wood, when lo! it was found to contain $3,754.50 in gold and silver coin and promissory notes. David, though poor, was honest, and he informed the administrators of his discovery. The result was a suit was entered to determine to whom the treasure should belong. The lower Conrt decided against Honest David, and he appealed. Such was the case that came up yesterday, and it oc-

Mr. Wright contended that David was guilty of no fraud or misrepresentation, and that he was entitled to have all that he bought-log, spindle and money. Mr. Dana contended that log and spindle were all that David bought or that the administrators intended to sell-and that David could not have any more, except on the paradox that the administrators sold that which they did not assent to the sale of, and had not offered for sale, and that David purchased that which he did not bid for nor pay for. Lots of other "wise saws and modern instances" were cited by Mr. Dana from Plutarch the life of Solon: 1 Plut. Lives, p 205 and pledge myself to spare no pains to give satis-"When some Coans once were drawing a net. some strangers of Miletus brought the draught unseen and at a venture. There chanced to come up a golden tripod, which Helen at her return from Troy, on the remembrance of an old prophecy, had thrown in there. The strangers contending with the fishers for the tripod, and the cities espousing the quarrel so far as to engage in war. Apollo, to end the controversy, advised that the tripod be presented to the wisest man. After passing round in fruitless search from one to another, it eventually came back to the temple of Apollo, and the Court by reason of inability to decide the ease, became the owner of the subject matter of the controversy. Mr. Wright said he did not wish to intrude any solvice upon the Court, but if they found David's case a knotty one, they could make short work of it by following the example of the ancient tribunal.

The Court has the case under advisement. -Philadelphia Bulletin.

CHILD STOLEN BY A BEGGAR WOMAN.-On the 17th inst., two brothers named Ira and Charles Chapman, while walking in the woods near the village of Sing Sing, Westchester county, encountered a party of seven men and two women gathered around a camp fire, and apparently leading a Gipsey life. One of the women had with her a little girl, about two years of age who was crying bitterly, and whose forlorn and neglected condition excited the commiseration of the young men to such an extent that they asked the woman to place her under their protection, where she would receive better care than could probably fall to her lot under the circumstances which then surrounded her. The woman willingly complied, and Sylvester Scott, the young men took the child to Mr. T. Maney, Overseer of the poor at Sing Sing, by whom she was kindly provided for. On Friday last, Mr. Maney observed an advertisement in one of the city papers, descriptive of a lost child belonging to Mr. Greenan, a respectable man living in James street, and believing it to refer to the little waif in his custody, he telegraphed to Mr. G. to come up and look at her. On Saturday, Mr. Greenan and Detective Wilson went to Sing Sing. where the heart of the former was made glad at discovering that the child was his own little daughter, who had been stolen from him on the 20th of last month, although in the interval the hardships she had suffered had changed her so sadly that he at first scarcely recognized her. In their efforts to find the child, its parents learned that she had been abducted by an Irishwoman named Ann Mc-Clusky, formerly keeper of a brothel in Water street, who, having been turned out of her wretched home, had taken to street begging for a livelihood, and used the little girl to excite the sympathy of the charitable. The woman McClusky is still at large. N. Y.

WE WOULD respectfully announce to our customers, and the public generally, that after Saturday, the 2d of March, we discontinue making a deduction of 10 per cent, on our cash sales, the time advertised for so doing having ex-TOROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES: Wis- pired; but, as a large number of our cash customers have always argued that we should offer some inducement to the cash purchaser, which we could not do under the one price system without allowing the same to all cash buyers, we have determined after the above date to make it a general thing with all, and make a deduction of five per cent, on all sales, large and small, which are paid for at the time of purchase. We have a large number of prompt credit customers who have been dealing with us for years, and it will give us pleasure to serve them as heretofore. But we have made the above proposition, believing that it will be to our mutual advantage. By which plan we shall be able to realize more ready money to make our purchases with, and that we shall be able to make up in part (by buying many of our goods for eash) what we shall lose by the deduc-> tion of five per cent. Our GOODS as heretofore will be found marked n plain figures at the lowest market rates, and no abatement will be made except the discount for ash named above. W. M. SHUSTER & CO. Washington, mh 4-dlm
